Tuesday 9 March 2021

Six Nations Rugby: Try, Yes or No?

A chance to hear about and discuss the state of the world game, foul play, the greatest players by position, the Lions and why referees don't get everything right.

With special reference to why isn't the ball put in straight at the scrum!

Rowan Kitt was a Television Match Official at the Rugby World Cup in Japan in 2019 and has officiated at almost 50 Test matches, including the last four Six Nations Championships.

He was the TMO in Chicago in 2016 when Ireland beat the All Blacks for the first time and he has officiated in New Zealand, Australia, South Africa and Argentina, as well as at two European Cup finals.

Rowan has a "day job" as Development Director and Fellow at Queens' College, Cambridge, alma mater of the great Mike Gibson and Jamie Roberts.
